FOREWORD

LIFE is just one "BRINGING UP FATHER" book after another. It's hard work to grind them out but as long as the public keeps clamoring for them, I'm on the job. My mother always told me to be nice to the public.

I tried to get the publishers to give the public this Bringing Up Father No. 5 book for nothing, but they refused. Now you can see what publishers are like.

Thus far 2,000,000 of these Bringing Up Father books have been sold. This is very disappointing. There are 105,000,000 people in this country. What's the matter with those 103,000,000 who haven't come across? Is the country going to the dogs?

Have a heart, good people! Even an artist has a right to live.

But, seriously—I thank the millions of my readers with all my heart for their generous response to my efforts to entertain them, and I promise that I'll try to make each succeeding book better than the last.
